INDIANAPOLIS WINS A GAME

An Indifferent Sort of a Contest in Which the New Yorkers Are Defeated.

Seery and McGeachy Do Some Brilliant Base-Running-Results of Other League and Association Games-The Racing Turf.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. NEW YORK, June 6 .- The Indianapolis team managed to-day to win the first game of the present series from the Giants, or rather were practically presented with it by the Giants. Both teams played rather indifferently, but the New Yorks, when it came to bad playing, gave the Hoosiers cards and spades and then beat them. The score card called for Moffett and Buckley as the battery for the visitors. Just before the game Moffett received a telegram announcing that his father was dving. He, of course, left for home immediately, and Boyle took his place in the box, with Myers for a backstop. Crane and Murphy were the battery for New York. Both pitchers did good work. Crane, having rather the best of it, would probably have won but for the abominable support he received. The features of the play were the fine fielding of Glasscock, McGeachy and Esterbrook, and the latter's base hit in the seventh inning. The base running of Seery and Me-Geachy was largely responsible for the victory of the Indianapolis team. New York scored in the first inning on Hines's muff of a fly ball. The big fellow redeemed himself, however, by making a three-base hit in the second half, which scored Seery's run, the latter having reached first on a fumble by Richardson. Both teams were anced regularly until the fifth inning. the last half, after one man was out, Myers lined the ball to right field for one base; Henry Boyle followed with a liner to right center, which advanced Myers to third, Boyle stole second, and Seery came to the bat. What was needed was a fly ball to bring in a run. Seery was equal to the occasion, and sent a long fly to center field. Foster caught the ball and made a phenomenal throw to the plate. The ball reached its destination three feet ahead of Myers. He was not put out, however, for a good reason, and that was that Murover towards the players' bench. Boyle, who had gone to third, attempted to score on the error, but was caught between the bases by Crane and Ewing, and finally run down by Crane. Foster opened the seventh inning with a base hit and stole second on Myers's low throw, and took third on Murphy's sacrifice. Crane hit to Boyle and Foster tried to score, but was put out at the plate. Another wild throw by Myers enabled Crane to steal second base. Gore's fly to short left dropped between Seery, Hines and Denny, and Crane scored. Then Bassett fumbled Ward's grounder. This error cost a run, as Gore scored on Ewing's base hit, Ward tried to do the same thing, but was cleverly run out by Myers, Glasscock, Denny and Esterbrook. The Hoosiers then came in and made three runs and won the game on one base hit and six errors, when the runs were really gifts. Nothing but good base-running would have secured them. Crane started the errors, by sending McGeachy to first on balls; Esterbrook hit safely to right field; McGeachy ran to third; Slattery made a wild throw, and McGeachy, continuing on to the plate, tried to score. Esterbrook went to third on the same error. Myers hit to Crane, and was put out at first. Boyle flied out to Richardson. Then the Giants fell to, and did some of the most saffron-hued fielding they have done this season. Seery hit a grounder to Ward, and should have been third out, as Ward made a nice throw to first; but he wasn't, for Connor muffed the ball squarely, and Esterbrook walked home. On the next ball pitched Seery started to run, and he did not stop until he reached the plate. Murphy threw wild to second. Both Foster and Slattery fumbled the ball. Finally they tossed the ball to Richardson, who threw it over Murphy's head. That settled it; the Giants were demoralized and couldn't make another run. The game was productive of two accidents to Spence's players. Denny and Boyle had a misunderstanding over a foul ball, and Denny split his finger. In the last inning a hot liner from Ward's bat, which Boyle stopped pluckily, gave the pitcher a wounded finger which will require considerable nursing before it can be used again. The Hoosi fer's will play the Jersey City at Jersey City tomorrow. Score:

Firemen Beat the Police. The 500 people who went to Athletic Park yesterday afternoon were surprised at the game of ball the "raw recruits" from the police force and fire department put up. Some of the men on both sides played like veterans, and the very evenly-matched nines gave two hours of very enjoyable sport. The police went outside the force for a battery, but the firemen presented two of their own men, who formerly were star players in amateur nines in Indianapolis and other places. Capt. Bob Campbell, who has been doing police work for eighteen years, played short for the police nine, and although it was the first time he had been on the field for years, he played a creditable game. One of the features of the game was the fielding of Sorters, who made a splendid running catch, and throwing from out center field to home plate put out a runner. The batting of W. Rafert and Talentire, and the pitching of Stanton who struck out eight men, were noticeable. The game was tied twice, and was lost by the police on account of several errors in the last two innings. The proceeds, netting about $200, go to disabled members of the two departments. The score was:

EVANSVILLE. June 6 .- Business circles were again thrown into a commotion to-day, by a difficulty between H. E. Read, sr., and his son, H. E. Read, jr. It was the sequel to the difficulty which occurred in the First National Bank last Monday, in which the bank-teller and ex-Congressman Heilman were also involved. Young Read and his father have not been upon good terms for some time. Both are in the real estate business, and prominently known in the business community. The father went to the office of the son this morning, evidently with a desper-ate purpose, as he had been there but a few moments when he out a knife and attempted to stab the son, who ran out of the place and down the street, closely pursued by the irate parent. Being a paralytic, the old gentleman jumped into his buggy and continued after the retreating young man until he turned into an alley, when he jumped out of the vehicle to catch him. When he was near his son, and ready to strike with the knife, he was stopped by friends, who intervened and disarmed him. A great crowd had joined in the chase, and the commotion caused by the same led to many rumors of the father having killed the son. Owing to the prominence of the parties in business circles, and their high and wealthy connections, the affair created a great sensation. No arrests were made.

To-day's balloting resulted in giving Snyder 41 and Hill 39 votes. The Democrats are quite jubilant, as this ward is reliably Republican. The Prohibitionists of the Fifth congressional district will hold a convention in this city the 14th inst., for the purpose of selecting a candidate to make the race for Congress. The Republicans of the Fifteenth judicial district will meet at Spencer June 15, for the purpose of selecting candidates for judge and prosecuting attorney. No party can stand against an aggressive campaign on a good, honest local option platform, and no party can carry the dead weight of high or low license in this day and

How the Pension Office Hedges When Congressional Wrath Is About to Descend. Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

WASHINGTON, June 6. - The Commissioner of

Pensions has been following pretty lively a practice, of late, that he originated when he came into office, which will bring him into general contempt in the eyes of men in Congress, if it does not get him into trouble. Nearly every pension case that comes before Congress has been refused in the Pension Office, and the committees in the House and Senate invariably call for the testimony bearing on the case and in the possession of the Pension Office, so as to conduct a regular investigation and ascertain if the cases have been rejected because of lack of merit, or on the ground that there is no law under which they may be allowed. On last Friday night there was a very hot debate in the House over a pension bill. General Black was severely criticised in the report made by a member of the Senate committee on pensions, and which report was adopted by the House committee. After the debate had progressed for some time and General Black's friends had grown very hot under the collar, the bill was laid aside without action. The feeling which was engendered led some Republican members to make an investigation of the case, and it was ascertained that it had originally been rejected at the Pension Office, but that after the Senate committee had reported the bill favorably and presented the smarting criticisms which were adopted by the House committee, and which was the source of so much contention, General Black directed the pension to be allowed, and he did so without, it is said, further investigation, a reopening of the case, or proper authority to make the allowance. He simply wanted to head off congresaction. Further investigation has re vealed the fact that this practice has been followed in very many instances. After a pension is refused at the department and the case comes up in Congress, officials at the department watch t closely. If it receives prompt action in the Senate, and a strong case is made, the department very often takes up the case and allows a pension, if the bill receives a majority report at any prospect of its passage there. This is done for the purpose of shearing the Republican Senate of credit for pension legislation. It is stated that a Republican Senator intends to compile a number of cases of this character and to give the Commissioner of Pensions a dressing down.

THE FIRE RECORD.

Tammany Hall and Tony Pastor's Theater Completely Wrecked by Flames. NEW YORK, June 6 .- About half-past 6 o'clock this morning a fire broke out in Tony Pastor's Theater in East Fourteenth street. As the flames gained a rapid beadway three alarms were sent out. The theater is in the Tammany Hall building, and adjoins the Academy of Music, which at one time was seriously threatened by the flames. By dint of hard work, however, the firemen prevented this, and at 8:45 o'clock the fire was got under control. Both Tammany Hall and Tony Pastor's Theater were wrecked. The fire broke out in the scenery room of the theater in the Tammany building. The firemen found the flames burning flercely in the middle of the big building, reaching toward the roof with mighty strides, and it was not until after a full hour's desperate struggle that the fire was under control. The additional danger that came from the proximity of the Academy of Music was successfully met, and the fire kept within the walls of the Tammany building. The big hall, so lately deserted by the Democratic hosts now President-making at St. Louis, is wrecked. Tony Pastor's Theater is wrecked, too. The whole inside of the big building is in ruins, and only the front, on Fourteenth street, looks as usual. The damage is estimated at $500,000. All the flags and bunting belonging to Tammany are ruined. The big Indian, St. Tammany, was carried out in safety. The bust of John Kelly and the plaster profile of Jefferson were broken. The portraits of Cleveland and Thurman intended to be displayed at a ratification meeting to be held, were saved.

Heavy Loss at Burlington. BURLINGTON, Vt., June 6 .- Fire - broke out in the dry kiln of Taft & Morgan's sash and door factory about 8 o'clock this morning. A strong wind was blowing at the time, and before the fire department could reach the spot the entire building was in flames. The fire at once come municated to the Baldwin Refrigerator Company's office, and the Shepard & Morse Company's retail yard, and later to the planing-mill. The engine-house alone was saved.
